

2010 GROSVENOR TEACHER FELLOWSHIP RECIPIENTS

National Geographic Education Programs (NGEP) and Lindblad Expeditions are pleased to announce the recipients of the 2010 Grosvenor Teacher Fellowship program. Selected from a highly competitive pool of qualified educators around the country, those selected for this professional development opportunity will travel aboard the National Geographic Explorer to Arctic Svalbard in June and July 2010.

JULIE COSTELLO

Carl Ben Eielson Middle School, Fargo, ND
6th grade Social Studies/Language Arts

ELOISE PORTERA

Grenada Elementary School, Grenada, MS
K-3rd grade, Director of Kidzeum Museum

SARA HEMENWAY

Hutto Middle School, Hutto, TX
6th grade World Cultures

DANIEL SNARE

Warren Tech, Lakewood, CO
11th/12th grade, Science/Technology

LYNN HOWARD

Encanto Elementary, San Diego, CA
1st-6th grade Environmental Sciences

KEVIN SUESS

Normal Community High School, Normal, IL
9/11/12th grade, Geography/History/Psychology

Alternates:

Erik Eckhoff, Poudre High School, Fort Collins, CO
Jessica Levine, Eckstein Middle School, Seattle WA
Ani Smith, Sheridan School, Elgin, IL
Anne Vilen, Evergreen Community Charter School, Asheville, NC

It is the hope of National Geographic and Lindblad Expeditions that the Grosvenor Teacher Fellowship Program will recognize those teachers who believe in the importance of geographic education by giving them the opportunity to bring a new level of geographic and conservation aspirations to themselves, their students, and the communities in which they live.

About National Geographic and Lindblad Expeditions

The National Geographic Society is one of the world's largest nonprofit scientific and educational organizations. During its 120 years the Society has focused on restoring and sustaining geography education in U.S. classrooms through the creation of curriculum and professional development opportunities for teachers. For over 50 years, Lindblad Expeditions has been taking travelers on ocean-based expeditions to remote and pristine places of natural and cultural beauty, with the aim of inspiring people to explore and care about the planet.