& EXCLUSIVE OFFERS
Discover the wildness of Baja you would otherwise miss. It is a living sea that teems with whales and dolphins, dotted with UNESCO World Heritage site desert islands that are only accessible by small ship.
Dear Traveler,

The rhythms of Baja are unique, and in the 35 years we have devoted to exploring Baja California and learning its nuances, we know them well. Soon California gray whales will be migrating south from their feeding grounds in Alaska to the Pacific lagoons of Baja California. On the other side of the peninsula, large numbers of Humboldt squid will aggregate, and humpbacks will abound, taking advantage of the concentration of food. Large gatherings of mobulas (rays that look like small mantas) will roam the Sea of Cortez as mating season approaches. Elusive blue whales, having summered in the south, will return for the winter.

Because we have spent 35 years exploring Baja, returning to it annually like the migratory wildlife, we can guarantee you the richest possible experience there. In addition to learning about the wildlife, the rhythms of their season in Baja over the last 35 years, we’ve also learned about our guests, about what people want from their experience here. So we craft our itineraries to make the most of your time and curiosity; and to ensure that while you might not have known much about Baja before you came, you will leave filled with its magic and revitalized by the tonic of wildness it uniquely offers.

Our itineraries change, geared to take advantage of unique elements at particular times. Our expedition team is veteran and sharp-eyed, unerringly able to reveal Baja’s wonders— in the air, on land and under the sea. So, the best time to go to Baja is pretty much anytime, depending on your interests.

In mid-April, for example, you won’t see gray whales cavorting, you won’t even go to the lagoons where they winter. But you can head north into the Sea of Cortez, the best place in the world to see many different kinds of whales in good conditions. However, it’s not just about whales. The islands themselves are strikingly beautiful. There are great concentrations of sea birds in parts, snorkeling with sea lions is delightful and kayaking in the mangroves is always full of surprises. And in December, we’re offering a new itinerary that weaves the cultural aspects into your experience of this multi-faceted region.

Plus, there’s the fact that Baja California is so close, yet so far away from anything that resembles day-to-day life— with a pristine wildness that feels spectacularly remote.

I hope that we manage to kindle your interest in Baja, and that you choose to explore it with us. You will benefit greatly from the experience we’ve gained by being fascinated by this geography for 35 years.

Yours sincerely,

Sven-Olof Lindblad

CELEBRATING 35 YEARS IN BAJA

Our expedition style of travel offers the most intriguing and holistic way to experience the best of Baja California. Sven Lindblad first explored Baja in 1979, intrigued by the shape of its islands and the inviting indentations on his chart of the Sea of Cortez. Fresh from his experiences in Africa, he found Baja, with its waves of migrating marine and avian life, as fascinating as the Serengeti. We’ve been exploring Baja and the Sea of Cortez ever since. And the product of our 35 years of immersion in the geography is an experience that you simply can’t get elsewhere, or with any other travel company. We are the only non-local company that is committed to exploring and helping to preserve this pocket of pristine wildness. And we know, and can show you every rewarding facet of it. Far more than whales, the Sea of Cortez truly is, as Jacques Cousteau called it, a living aquarium, teeming with life and creating daily discovery opportunities for you, your friends, and family. And whether you consider yourself a photographer or simply someone who takes shots, the photo ops in Baja are simply awesome.

“In 2009 we went back to Cabo Pulmo ... expecting fishes to be more abundant after 10 years of protection. But we could not believe what we saw—thousands upon thousands of large fishes such as snappers, groupers, trevally, and manta rays. They were so abundant that we could not see each other if we were fifteen meters apart.”

—Enric Sala, National Geographic News Watch
Fall under the spell of Baja on an expedition that unites its twin facets: culture and wildness. Hop among pristine desert islands rife with endemic species, rare plants, and towering forests of cacti. You’ll find the air so clear and clean that on some evenings a green flash will burst on the horizon at sunset—a phenomenon so rare some people refuse to believe it exists. Search for migrating humpback whales on their way to the Sea of Cortez. Hike a desert arroyo to see ancient art, handprints hidden in a cave for millennia, and feel a connection to the ancients in this high, remote desert. Visit Todos Santos, a Pueblo Magico, a small Baja town with outsize charm. See their unique architecture, stroll the sleepy streets, and meet contemporary artists who live and exhibit their work here. Snorkel with sea lions (at Los Islotes), and explore fantastic Cabo Pulmo, where ten years ago local fisherman chose to stop fishing, declaring the region a “no-take zone” to attract divers and snorkelers. Today it is one of the most vibrant undersea sites in the region.

“Many of the grays of Baja, Frohoff told me, treat their days of birthing and nursing there as a kind of protracted coming-out party. “It’s extraordinary,” she said. “At precisely the time when you’d expect them to be the most defensive, they’re incredibly social. They’ll come right up to boats, let people touch their faces, give them massages, rub their mouths and tongues.”

— Toni Frohoff, Whale Behaviorist, from “Watching Whales Watching Us,”

A 35 YEAR RELATIONSHIP WITH THE GENTLE GIANTS

For 35 years we’ve been putting guests within arm’s reach of California gray whales—and can assure you, it’s a transformative experience. While it is impossible to guarantee encounters, our expedition is designed to maximize opportunities to experience both sides of Baja’s remarkable nature. We spend two days in the nursery lagoons, where the females come to birth and rear their calves. Since we’re the only non-local company permitted to use our own expedition landing craft, we spend more time with whales and less time getting there. Then, on the other side of the Peninsula you’ll see Baja’s other facets: snorkel with sea lions, hike forests of giant cacti, and explore the desert islands of the pristine Sea of Cortez for an encompassing Baja experience.

Left: Guests enjoy a close encounter with a gray whale. Above: Sunrise, Isla San Esteban, Sea of Cortez.
Seeing gray whales in their natural habitat is one of the great delights of this voyage. In Bahía Magdalena, venture out in expedition landing craft among these magnificent creatures. In the Sea of Cortez, search for a variety of whales, plus dolphins, blue-footed boobies, pelicans, cormorants and magnificent frigatebirds. You’ll also snorkel among sea lions, join naturalists on hikes amid barrel cacti and sculpted sand dunes, and see a variety of desert flora and fauna.

EXPERIENCE HIGHLIGHTS

▶ Get an up-close view of gigantic gray whale mothers and their calves in the breeding grounds of Bahía Magdalena.
▶ Go snorkeling amid sea lions, brilliant blue damselfish, and schools of king angelfish.
▶ Kayak clear blue waters on the lookout for a variety of bird species including magnificent frigatebirds.
▶ Explore diverse landscapes, including sand dunes, a cactus forest and deserted islands.

Gray whales often approach our expedition landing craft, as curious about us as we are about them.
DAY 1: LOS ANGELES/LA PAZ/SAN CARLOS/EMBARK
Upon arrival in La Paz, transfer to San Carlos where we embark. (D)

DAYS 2-4: BAHÍA MAGDALENA
Navigate through an immense system of protected coves and channels, surrounded by a fringe of mangrove channels at one edge of a vast, windswept plain. Each winter, during their long migration, gray whales travel south from their Arctic feeding grounds to breed and raise their calves in these sheltered waters. Observe migrating whales from the ship and up close from our expedition landing craft. Watch for magnificent frigate birds, pelicans, cormorants, terns, great blue herons, ibis and willets. (B,L,D daily)

DAY 5: LOS CABOS AND GORDA BANKS
This morning cruise past Friars Rocks at Land’s End. For those who wish, we will visit the historic town center of San José del Cabo. The afternoon is spent at the Gorda Banks seamount or La Fortuna, gathering places for whales, especially humpbacks, dolphins and other sea life. (B,L,D)

DAY 6: LOS ISLOTES AND ISLA ESPÍRITU SANTO
At Los Islotes, don flippers, a mask and snorkel (which we’ll gladly provide) and swim with curious sea lions. We have a leisurely afternoon to swim, kayak or hike at Isla Espíritu Santo. Brown pelicans, gulls and boobies are all part of the landscape. Finish the day with a relaxing beach barbecue complete with a campfire and a star-filled sky. (B,L,D)

DAY 7: EXPLORING THE SEA OF CORTEZ
Search for whales among the islands of the southern Sea of Cortez, an area that has proven to be one of the best for finding blue whales, and often common and bottlenose dolphins. Explore the many uninhabited islands such as Isla San José or Isla Santa Catalina to walk among huge cacti and observe the diverse bird life. Swim or snorkel with king angelfish, butterfly fish, damselfish and the beautiful parrotfish. (B,L,D)

DAY 8: LA PAZ/DISEMBARK/HOME

“Later, cloaked in the light of our dying fire, we listened to the creak of cactuses swaying in the wind... Somewhere out in the boulders, a coyote wailed beneath a spray of cold stars... ’This is the stuff that keeps you coming back to Baja,’ Norman said quietly. ’The primitiveness, the aloneness of it. My problem is I never get tired of it. It seems like my compass always points south.”

BEST TIME, BEST PLACE
WHALES & WILDNESS

A rare and incredible gathering occurs in spring in the upper Sea of Cortez. Pods of dolphins form aggregations of thousands of individuals. An incredible variety of whale species come here, as well as huge schools of mobula rays. We seek out encounters with these diverse marine tribes, relying on our 35 years of documenting the undersea shelves and channels where they can reliably be found feeding. In addition, we’ll hike islands where the shores teem with a cacophony of seabirds, and kayak into quiet grottos with unearthly echoes. See scores of blue-footed boobies and pelicans. Plus stroll the streets of Santa Rosalia, a historic mining town, and enjoy a visit to a local bakery or gelato shop. At the day’s end, relax at a beach barbecue, where the campfire’s sparks drift towards the stars, and bask in the splendid solitude of Baja.

DAY 2-7: EXPLORING THE SEA OF CORTEZ
Our routing is designed with flexibility in mind, to maximize opportunities for wildlife sightings. It will most likely include the islands and activities listed below, although the order may vary. (B,L,D daily)

ISLAS SAN ESTEBAN AND SAN PEDRO MÁRTIR:
Walk up a desert wash, to search for desert birds and the endemic pinto chuckwalla—a fat, harmless desert lizard. Later visit Isla San Pedro Mártir, a 1,000-foot-high guano-covered island that is home to thousands of seabirds. Blue-footed boobies, red-billed tropicbirds, pelicans and frigatebirds are all found here.

ISLA RASA:
In the spring, one of the great wildlife spectacles of the Sea of Cortez is in full swing at Isla Rasa—the nesting of thousands of Heermann’s gulls and elegant and royal terns. We will go ashore to meet researchers and unobtrusively observe the behavior of these three species.

ISLA SAN MARCOS:
At Isla San Marcos there is a beautiful cove for swimming, snorkeling, and kayaking. In the afternoon we are again in rich whale waters, near the mouth of Bahía Conception where we stand a good chance of sighting several species of whales, particularly fin or sperm.

ISLA SANTA CATALINA:
This morning we’ll search for whales in the waters south of Isla Carmen, an area that has proven to be one of the best for finding blue whales, and often bottlenose and common dolphins. In the afternoon we visit Isla Santa Catalina, famous for its giant barrel cactus and lovely cardon cactus forest. The protected bay of our anchorage is also an excellent site for snorkeling. With a full afternoon here, there is time for swimming, snorkeling and hiking.

LOS ISLOTES AND ISLA ESPÍRITU SANTO:
At Los Islotes, snorkelers have one of life’s great opportunities—swimming with graceful and curious sea lions. With a deeply indented shoreline and dramatically eroded cliff faces, Isla Espíritu Santo is perhaps the most beautiful island in the Sea of Cortez. We have a leisurely afternoon for swimming, snorkeling, kayaking, and in the evening, a beach barbecue under the desert sky.
