ABOARD NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SEA LION | 2014-15
Lindblad Expeditions and National Geographic have joined forces to further inspire the world through expedition travel. Our collaboration in exploration, research, technology and conservation will provide extraordinary travel experiences and disseminate geographic knowledge around the globe.
Dear Traveler,

In 1977, I had the good fortune to spend a month or so in Panama and Costa Rica. I was on a reconnaissance mission to scout possible landing sites for my father’s ship, the Lindblad Explorer.

In a swimming pool in San Jose, I overheard some missionaries talking, “Have you ever seen anything so beautiful as the beaches. And the monkeys and the birds everywhere,” said one. I immediately swam over to them to learn more. “Manuel Antonio National Park,” they said. After more questioning, I was off the next day in a jeep on a grueling road, and arrived at what was unquestionably paradise: so serene, so beautiful, so alive. In just one hour I saw an abundance of howler and spider monkeys, a couple of three-toed sloths and myriad birds. Then, a dusk swim from perhaps the world’s most beautiful beach.

Now a UNESCO World Heritage site, Manuel Antonio, is a popular place, however we have permission to go ashore long before others arrive, when it’s blissfully empty of humans. And we go to another UNESCO site that was off limits in 1977 due to its status as a penal colony until 2004: Isla Coiba in Panama. Restricted access has resulted in an almost pristine environment, and our sojourn there is an expedition highlight.

And it is worth noting that we do not simply transit the Panama Canal. By special agreement, we have been granted permission to visit the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute in Barro Colorado Island in Gatun Lake—a hill above the Canal flood zone. It is an isolated, richly diverse habitat. And diversity pretty much sums up this expedition: from one of man’s most remarkable achievements to among the most unspoiled tropical nature on earth.

The entire expedition team looks forward to sharing it with you.

All the best,

Sven-Olof Lindblad

P.S. The Canal is not the only man-made wonder you can encounter on our expedition: see page 8 to learn about the new Frank Gehry-designed BioMuseo and our limited time, very special offer.

– THEODORE ROOSEVELT, ADDRESSING THE CANAL WORKERS
A special Panama Canal transit through a wealth of biodiversity

Transit the Canal over two days, where we typically see the workings of the locks by day, and also dramatically lit by night. Since we overnight in the Canal Zone on lushly-fringed Gatun Lake, we’ll have the opportunity, by special arrangement, to visit Barro Colorado Island, site of the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute, a leading tropical research station since 1923—and a place of an extraordinary variety of wildlife. We’ll get a behind-the-scenes look at research projects underway, being conducted by the world’s top tropical scientists.

Left: The Panama Canal was built from 1904 to 1914 after a French attempt that began in 1881 and was abandoned in 1889. Top: Barro Colorado Island where we visit the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute and learn more about the National Geographic-funded projects to study the island’s species; squirrel monkey; guests observe the dramatically lit Canal by night.
The historic Panama Canal & a chance to observe the making of Canal history again

The Panama Canal is a “man-made” wonder, an engineering marvel that changed the way the world traveled and moved goods. Now a mammoth new construction project is underway: new locks, which are seventy feet wider, are being built at both ends of the existing canal. These new locks will allow behemoths—much larger than Panamax-sized ships—to alter global commerce again, by allowing a much greater volume of goods to cross. We see the construction site from a distance during our Canal transit. And we’ve created a special opportunity to get up close.

BOOK ONE OF THE FIRST FIVE DEPARTURES IN 2013 AND SEE THE CHANGING CANAL UP CLOSE—A MASSIVE CONSTRUCTION SITE VIEWED FROM THE SLEEK NEW OBSERVATION CENTER, WITH OUR COMPLIMENTS

Be our guest for an overnight/two-day stay in Panama City. By special arrangement, you’ll tour Miraflores Lock and then observe the action of the Canal from the overlooking restaurant where we’ll dine. Visit the new Canal’s mega-scale construction site as well as the Frank Gehry-designed Museum of Biodiversity, which is yet to be opened to the public. As this opportunity came together very recently, it will be complimentary for the Nov. 16, 23, 30 and Dec. 7 & 14, 2013 departures. Guests on later expeditions may choose to join as an optional extension. (Pgs. 8-9)
“What is that?” our guests often ask, pointing at the angular jumble of steel, concrete, and color of the yet-to-open Frank Gehry-designed BioMuseo. A striking tribute to the history of the isthmus and the wildlife it engendered, it is visible as we approach the Canal. Ambitious in scope, its eight exhibits are spread over 43,000 square feet, one, titled Panamarama puts visitors in the center of a three-level projection space surrounded on all sides, ceiling and floor included, by screens that make you feel as if you’re deep in the Panamanian rain forest. Another exhibit, a pair of cylindrical two-story aquariums, tells the story of undersea life on each side of the Canal.

You’ll discover the history of the isthmus and then experience its diverse flora and fauna firsthand. The region is home to iconic wildlife—brilliant macaws, howler monkeys, capuchin monkeys, sloths, vibrantly colored butterflies, strange frogs, and the seldom-seen puma—in all, hundreds of species of mammals and thousands of species of flora, including hundreds of orchids.
EXPLORE FRANK GEHRY’S HERALDED, YET-TO-BE-OPENED BIOMUSEO HIS FIRST AND ONLY BUILDING DESIGNED IN CENTRAL AMERICA—ALSO COMPLIMENTARY TO GUESTS WHO RESERVE ONE OF THE FIRST FIVE DEPARTURES IN 2013

This pre- or post-extension visit to the BioMuseo and the new Panama Canal’s Expansion Observation Center offers a local education on the breadth of wilderness in the region and the engineering marvel of the Canal. Monuments to the wonder of wilderness and the power of humans to change the face of the Earth, the extension grants special access and adds layers of insight. Guests on later expeditions may choose to explore the BioMuseo and new Canal Observation Center (pg 7) as an expedition extension. See page 20 for future extension details.
Authentic expedition experiences where wildness reigns

Explore remote, wild places accessible only by expedition ship. Swim from a beach of one of the tiny, idyllic islands in the Gulf of Panama, free from tourist infrastructure, and reachable by our expedition landing craft. Ride horseback through the rain forest, explore a jungle shoreline by kayak, snorkel a vibrant undersea garden, and cruise up winding creeks canopied in jungle aboard expedition landing craft.

This is the authentic wildness of Costa Rica & Panama—discover it up-close and in-depth.

Left and above: take advantage of opportunities for beach walking, snorkeling, visits to secluded waterfalls and kayaking. Above: a fluttering hummingbird sips nectar.

Upon arrival in San José, transfer by land to Herradura and embark our ship National Geographic Sea Lion. (D)

DAY 2: MANUEL ANTONIO NATIONAL PARK
Spend the morning in Manuel Antonio National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage site, where thick forests fringe white-sand beaches. Watch for three-toed sloths lazing among the branches, and spot monkeys and vividly colored birds. This afternoon, follow the Pacific coastline south and stop for a refreshing swim or a hike. (B,L,D)

DAY 3: OSA PENINSULA
Anchor off the Osa Peninsula to see some of the most pristine lowland rain forest on the Pacific coast. In the environs of Corcovado National Park, swim in waterfall pools, ride horses on the beach, or trek through the rain forest for a chance to see four species of monkeys—howler, spider, capuchin, and squirrel. (B,L,D)

DAY 4: GOLFO DULCE
Enter the mangrove-fringed Golfo Dulce along the southwestern edge of Costa Rica. Visit Casa Orquideas, a tropical paradise of ornamental palms, bromeliads, heliconias, and orchids difficult to access and reached by boat only. Keep your eye out for tanagers, parrots, and toucans. Later, explore the placid bay, which is ideal for kayaking, cruises in our expedition landing craft, and swimming. (B,L,D)

DAY 5: COIBA NATIONAL PARK, PANAMA
We make our first stop in Panama this morning at the remote Isla de Coiba, one of the many islands of Coiba National Park, a UNESCO World Heritage site. TERMS & CONDITIONS

Reservations: To reserve your place, an advance payment is required at the time of reservation. The per person advance payment amount varies by program, and is outlined in our brochures, as well as on our website. Payment is accepted by Visa, MasterCard, American Express, Discover, or by check. Receipt of your initial payment indicates your acceptance of our complete Terms and Conditions. We require written notice at the time of reservation for any physical condition, diet, or treatment requiring special attention. Once your reservation is confirmed, we urge you to use your personalized online account for important information to help you prepare for your voyage. Managing your documents online will facilitate fast and accurate communication, and allow you to provide us with pertinent details we require, in order to complete your reservation. Your online account gives you access to your Expedition Guide, which includes valuable information specific to your voyage. You can also use your online account to make easy payments, view recommended flights and reading material, packing list, and so much more.

Final Payment: For expeditions of eight nights or less, final payment is due 60 days prior to departure. For expeditions of nine nights or more, final payment is due 90 days prior to departure.

Travel Protection Plan: We strongly recommend that you take advantage of our Travel Protection Plan. This plan offers comprehensive coverage to protect you from cancellation fees, costs incurred due to trip delays/interruption, and damaged or lost baggage, and provides medical assistance and evacuation during your travels. Our Travel Protection Plan is available for U.S. and Canadian residents only, and may be purchased any time prior to final payment due date. Travel Protection premiums are non-refundable once plan is purchased.

Smoking Policy: Smoking is allowed only in designated outdoor areas.

Responsibility and Other Terms & Conditions: Among other things, limitations of Lindblad Expeditions’ and the National Geographic Society’s liability for loss of property, injury, illness or death during the voyage will be provided to all guests on the ship’s ticket sent prior to departure, and are also available on our website at www.expeditions.com/terms, or upon request. By registering for a trip, the guest agrees to all such terms and conditions.

Note: Itineraries and prices listed in this brochure are valid as of publication date, and are subject to change. Under normal conditions, the total expedition cost is guaranteed at the time of booking. However, the published price is determined far in advance of initial departure on the basis of then-existing projections of fuel and other costs. In the event we determine that current costs create an unsustainable financial model, including but not limited to increases in the price of fuel, currency fluctuations, increases in government taxes or levies, or increased security costs, we reserve the right to pass on these costs to you, to cover such unexpected increases. We will always provide a transparent accounting of the reason for such an increase in costs.
