ICE FEVER: IT'S A THING

EDIFYING. EXHILARATING. AND DEEPLY MOVING.

The Antarctic ice sheet is the most distinctive feature of Earth as seen from space—every astronaut’s account mentions it. And the ice is what makes every Antarctic explorer vow to return. There’s a whole glossary of ice words to learn—macro-scale terms like fast ice, leads, and growlers, to more granular terms like brash and bergy bits. Ice is visually stunning, and nearly kaleidoscopic in its diversity of form. But what’s exhilarating to discover is the ice’s voice. Sitting in a stilled kayak, listening to the subtle sibilance of thousand-year-old gases releasing from a bobbing field of floating bergy bits is like eavesdropping on Earth’s whispered secrets. Once you’ve experienced it, you’ll never forget it.

“The single best whale encounter I’ve ever had. Over the course of two rounds of Zodiac cruises a group of very friendly humpbacks circled our Zodiac in a clear display of curiosity. It was a highlight of the trip for many of the guests that were nearby including myself.”

ULTIMATE POLAR EXPEDITION SHIPS

EXPLORING ANTARCTICA SHOULD BE A PINNACLE EVENT IN a traveler's life. We're committed to doing whatever it takes to make your experience the most memorable ever—and our expedition ships are key. Top-tier Ice Class vessels, each is purpose-designed and built, incorporating 50+ years of polar experience, for exploring the ice in comfort and safety. The captains of the Lindblad-National Geographic fleet are extraordinary mariners, with decades of ice navigation expertise. Our expedition teams are hand-picked for their knowledge of polar natural history and their ice skills. Equipped with state-of-the-art tools, our ships are unparalleled bases for explorations. And the logistics on each are superb, designed to swiftly and efficiently get you off ship on your choice of thrilling daily forays.

The captains of the Lindblad-National Geographic fleet are extraordinary mariners. For example, Leif Skog, Lindblad VP of Marine Operations and Master of the National Geographic Explorer, has been navigating vessels in Antarctica nearly every season since 1979 on over 200 polar voyages. As Chairman of the IAATO Marine Committee (Int'l Assn. of Antarctic Tour Operators), he was a primary architect of the IAATO Emergency Contingency Plan for all vessels operating in Antarctica.

“ After breakfast, we zipped to shore at Brown Bluff, a fascinating geologic area where we found hundreds of penguins. This is a colony which supported 100,000 pairs of Adélie penguins earlier in the season, but is now reaching the season’s end. There were a handful of Adélie chicks and many gentoo chicks testing the waters and exercising their wings. The beach shallows were kiddy pools filled with fluffy chicks sticking their heads into the water, wading in, and being pushed around by small incoming waves. We enjoyed watching their antics for a couple of hours, as well as finding a solitary fur seal, and taking a hike onto the edge of a glacier.”

EXPLORE YOUR WAY EACH DAY

OUR ANTARCTIC ITINERARIES ARE CRAFTED BY EXPLORERS, and every itinerary point features opportunities to head out and discover, in one dynamic way or another. The freedom of choice means opportunities to choose how active you'll be, whether kayaking among bergy bits, hiking up a ridge to a vista overlooking a cove, or instead taking a short stroll along the shore where penguins are gathered. Our seamless shore-landing operation, perfected over decades, gets you quickly ashore to share in exploring. Your freedom of choice extends to which members of our naturalist staff you choose to spend time with aboard ship. With a diverse team with broad expertise, you may choose to join your photo instructor at the deck rail to get tips on landscape photography, or stand next to an expert birder with binoculars in hand, or join one of our knowledgeable historians to learn about the golden age of Antarctic exploration in the region we're exploring. You can begin each day with a morning stretch class, or a pre-breakfast coffee at the 24/7 coffee/tea stations on the ship. End each day looking to the next at Recap, followed by drinks with your traveling companions, or by relaxing solo in one of the ship's many nooks and crannies where you can read or journal.

“I'm a highly active person, so always appreciate every chance to get off ship. And in the early season, when our captains can “garage” the ship in the frozen sea ice, everyone can descend directly for a once-in-a-lifetime walk, snowshoe or cross-country ski trek. When the conditions are just right, it's a thrilling and incredibly memorable way to experience this vast landscape. It also shows that there is never a dull moment, or a 'lesser' time to go, during our Antarctic season.”

— SVEN LINDBLAD,
CEO & Founder, Lindblad Expeditions

OUR TEAM IS ACE AT DOING WHAT IT TAKES

ROALD AMUNDSEN WINNING THE RACE TO THE NORTH POLE.

Jean-Baptiste Charcot charting the Antarctic peninsula.

Neither of them have anything on you—you're a natural born Antarctic explorer, too. But sometimes even the most intrepid of adventurers need a guide—and that's where we come in. Our team has the knowledge and passion for Antarctica that will kindle yours. They will do whatever it takes, from manning spotting scopes to search for whales; lingering as long as you want on deck to shoot photos of passing petrels; to finding and exploring uncharted coves and waterways when conditions enable it.

“A Zodiac foray in search of leopard seals with a polar expert had us searching the brash ice that the seals gravitate to. We navigated from ice floe to floe. Sure enough, there it was! We slowly approached the ice while he radioed to other Zodiacs in the area so they could see too. Will never forget that serpentine smile. (The leopard seal, not the staff.)”

DISCOVER THE SELDOM-SEEN POLAR UNDERSEA

BECAUSE THE UNDERSEA IS VITAL TO YOUR UNDERSTANDING OF Antarctica, we've committed the technology and personnel resources to offer what no other travel company in Antarctica does—an exploration of the vivid and surprising world beneath our ship.

During the voyage, an undersea specialist will don special polar diving gear to explore and shoot video of the Antarctic marine environment and its otherworldly creatures. You'll get to see this amazing world on TV screens in the warm comfort of the lounge, with our undersea specialist as your guide. You'll see what lies beneath the ice and discover strange and wonderful lifeforms. In some cases, our specialists have photographed specimens not known to scientists. See the life lived on Antarctica's ice, and the marine life found deep beneath the surface

“ It was the actual anniversary date of Lars-Eric’s first expedition to Antarctica, and we’d all had a champagne toast in the lounge in his honor. After dinner, a few people noticed the sky becoming pink, then orange...and before I knew it, I was on the stern watching the fieriest sunset of my life—at 11:00 p.m.—the entire sky flooded with reds, pinks, yellows, and oranges across the horizon, illuminating the peaks. Even long-time naturalists like Pete Puleston and Bud Lehnhausen said they’d never seen a sunset like that in Antarctica. This was at 11:00 p.m.”

JOIN A COMMUNITY OF SCIENTISTS & EXPLORERS

ANTARCTICA IS VAST AND REMOTE, SO CONDUCTING

scientific research is logistically difficult and expensive. Our guests in South Georgia and the Falklands will have a real chance to contribute to the scientific understanding of the region. Assisted by a naturalist, you'll have the opportunity to join a BioBlitz to collect data. By simply spotting and photographing flora and fauna with your camera or smartphone, you can help record and identify every living plant and animal at certain key sites on South Georgia. This information will directly inform the management of invasive species by the South Georgian Heritage Trust as they seek to preserve this iconic ecosystem.

“With Citizen Science expedition travel, we are asking guests to volunteer and collaborate on large, sometimes global projects. It's an opportunity to contribute to the understanding of the environments we visit.”

Massive king penguin colonies, as splendid a sight as this world offers, can be found in a special place: South Georgia. A remote island in the Southern Ocean some 750 nautical miles from Antarctica, South Georgia is the new frontier—where savvy travelers with a passion for wild places can experience the genuine sovereignty and majesty of a last wild kingdom.

A large colony of King penguins is shown, with many individuals having their heads tilted upwards. The penguins have dark grey bodies and bright orange-yellow patches on their heads and necks. The background is a dense, out-of-focus crowd of similar penguins.

EXPERIENCE THE GREATEST WILDLIFE
SPECTACLE ON EARTH

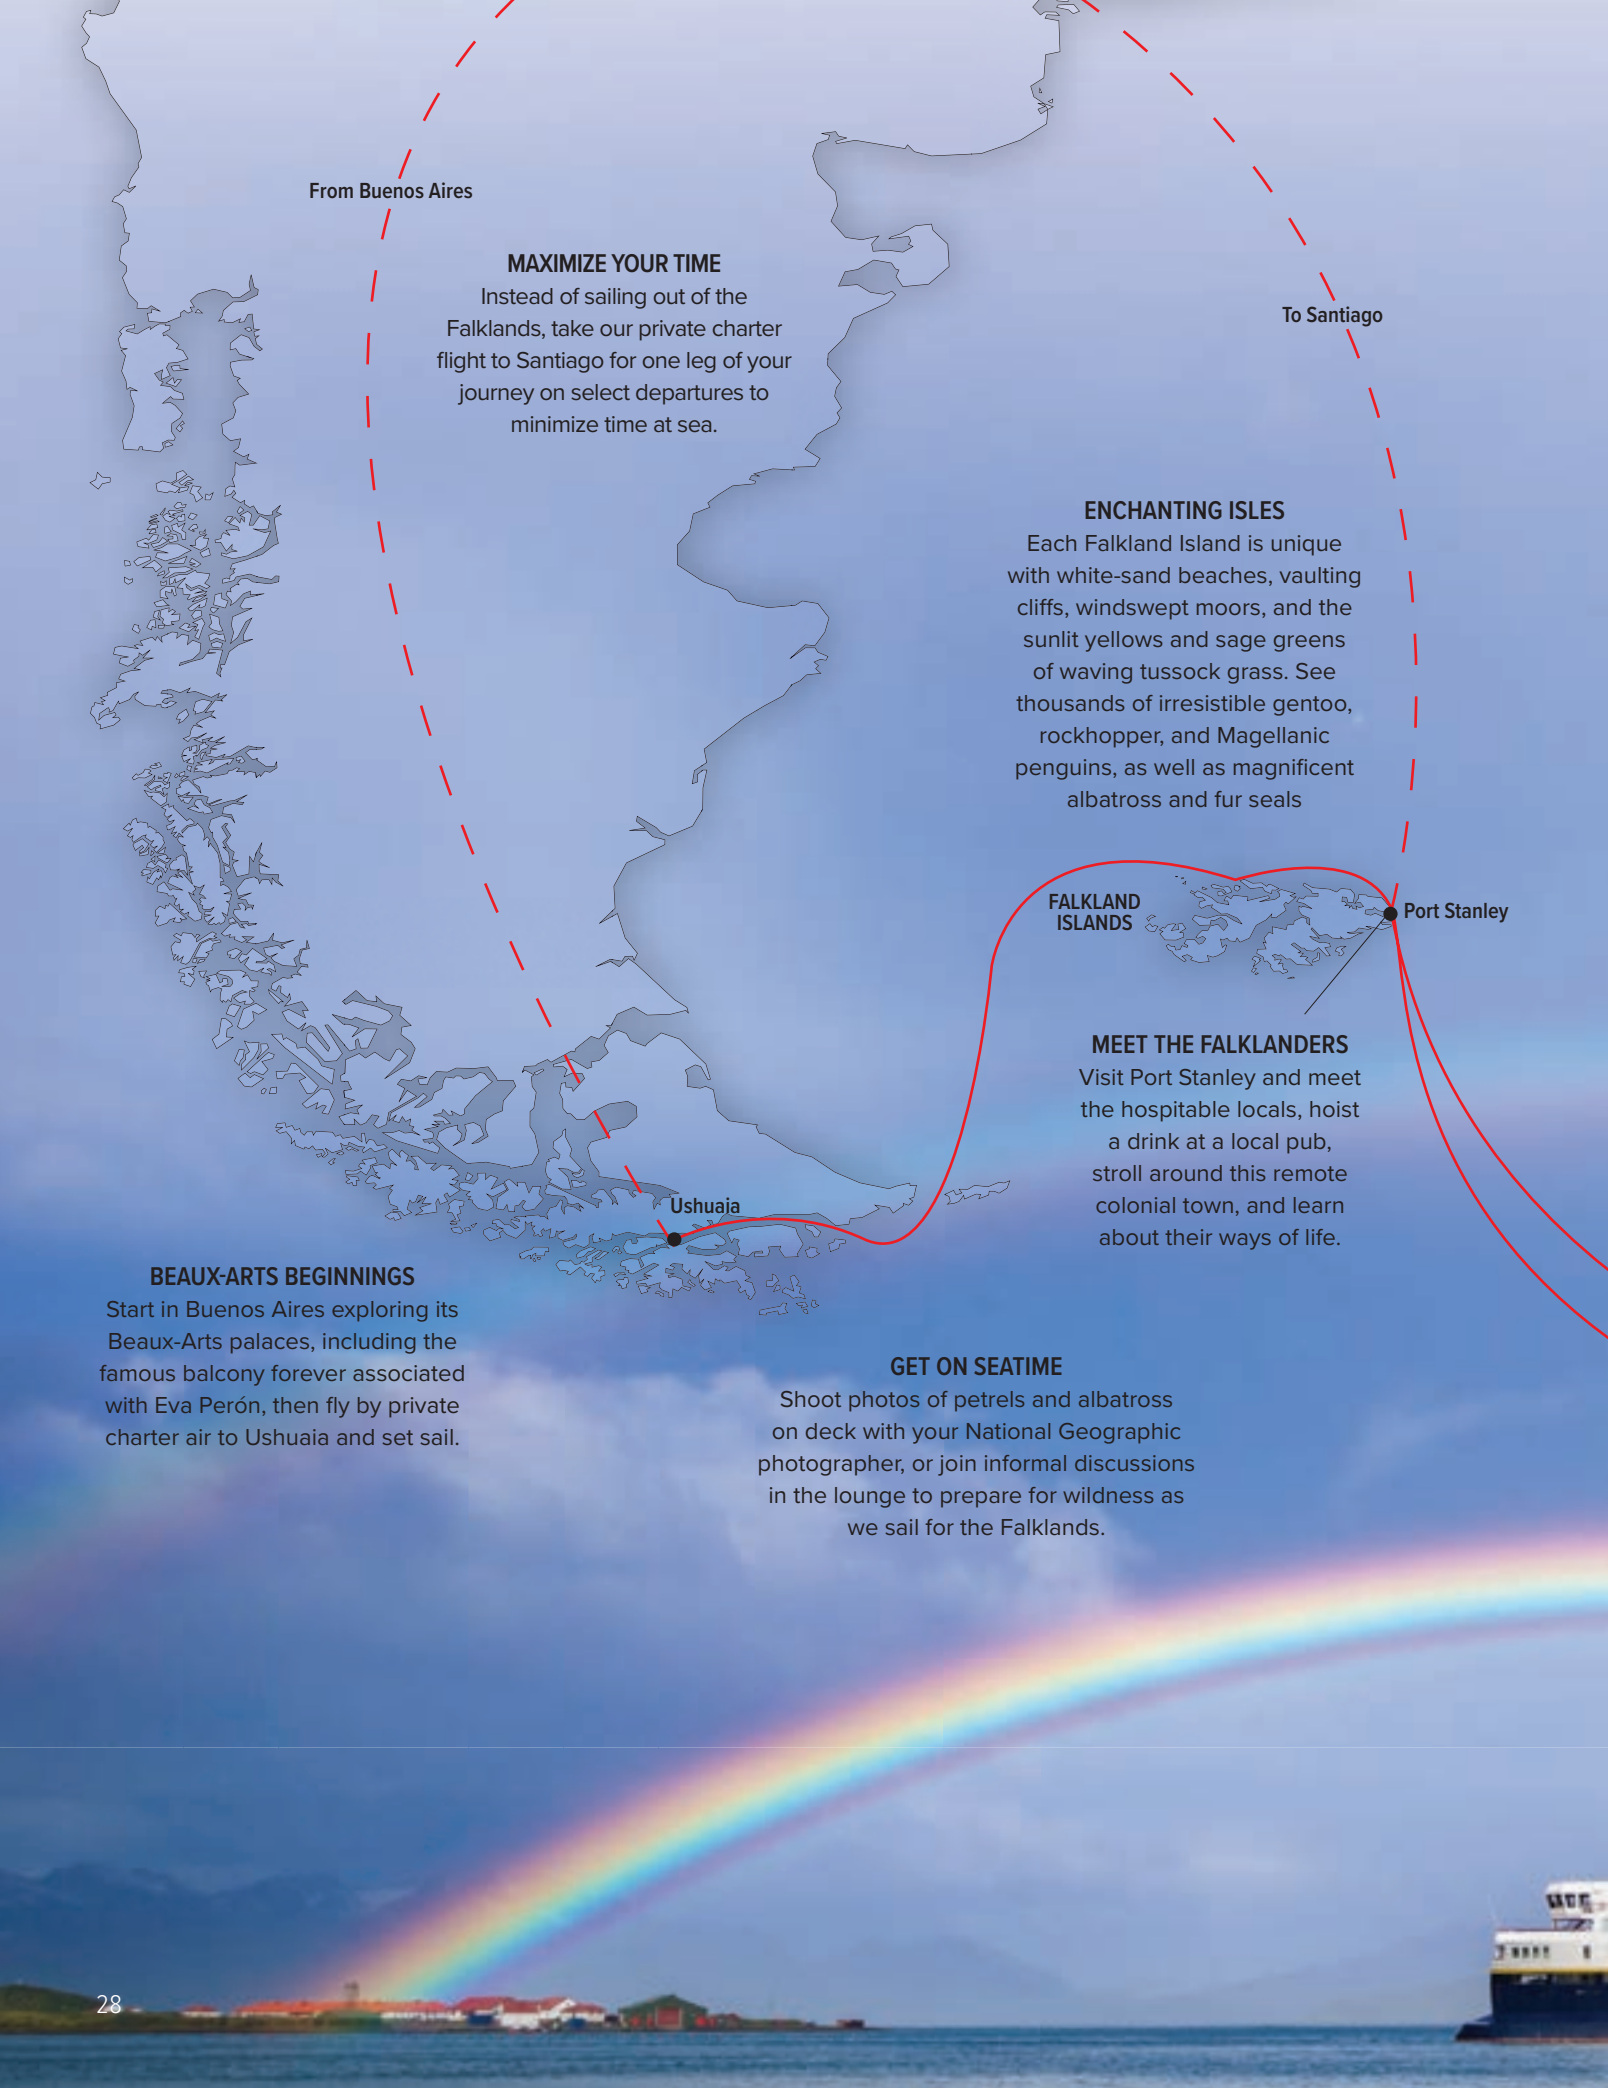

IT IS AN ASTONISHING SIGHT—100,000+ KING PENGUINS IN ONE rookery. The sheer biomass, the ruckus, the sensory overload will stop you in your tracks. But the profusion of life in South Georgia goes so far beyond this one spectacle that it boggles the mind and sends your spirit soaring. Dense colonies of macaroni and gentoo penguins, lolling fur seals, and 8,000-pound elephant seals. In the Falklands, find cliffs teeming with grey-headed, black-browed, and wandering albatross—nearly a third of all birds of this species nest here. Discover the fascinating human history in Shackleton’s heroics, the whaling lore of Stromness, and in the remote settlements of the Falklands.

Choose from two expeditions: the ultimate trifecta expedition to Antarctica, South Georgia and the Falklands. Or, if you’ve already explored Antarctica, take our South Georgia and the Falklands voyage to focus on the wildlife spectacle. If 2021 is your travel year, you’ll place yourself in the path of totality on the Antarctica, South Georgia and the Falklands Nov. 17 & 18, 2021 departures. While Nature offers no guarantees, our three ships will be in the Southern Ocean, positioned to see the solar eclipse, if weather conditions allow. Visit expeditions.com/eclipse.

EXPEDITION HIGHLIGHTS

LUXURY OF COMFORT IN A CAPITAL OF WILDNESS

OUR THREE POLAR SHIPS, THE FINEST BASECAMPS AN

explorer could want, allow us to freely roam. They are equipped with a fleet of Zodiacs and kayaks for up-close and personal explorations. The Bridge is welcoming, inviting you to spend time with the Captain and officers, watching the calm business of navigation unfold. Our expedition ships are also equipped for living well. The lounge, dining room, and other public spaces contribute to the esprit de corps that is a hallmark of our expeditions. A library serves those who want to learn more about the region or curl up with a best seller. The observation lounge is a fine spot to gather for a light meal or to watch petrels soar overhead as we sail. And a fully-stocked bar is a place to relax or engage with fellow travelers. The wellness center, gym, sauna, and stretching sessions with our wellness specialist boost the tonic of wildness nature provides. And cosseting cabins, outfitted with our signature linens and feather duvets provide the perfect ending to active days.

“Before lunch, we set up the kayak platform and offered the chance for a “Polar Plunge.” This was not really a swim, because those that did it pretty much jumped into the water and then got back out as fast as humanly possible. Amazingly, about 90 of our guests partook in this crazy activity.”

DINING IS ANOTHER
EXPEDITION EXPERIENCE

National Geographic Explorer, National Geographic Orion, and National Geographic Endurance share matching appetites for adventure and dining excellence. Each ship's Executive Chef brings menu concepts, collectively designed by our Director of Hotel Operations, Ana Esteves, to life daily. Count on them to keep your expeditionary spirit well fed, so to speak, and for daily diversity and flavors from varying regions. Our pioneering culinary program is rooted in sustainability. We obtain fresh vegetables from a local grower in the Falklands, and fresh lamb from an island rancher. Our goal is for our guests to experience the geography through the food served wherever possible. Dining is part of the expedition experience and no assigned seating makes for easy mingling with congenial fellow guests and expedition staffers.

CONSIDERING ANTARCTICA?

There are 6 important questions to ask before you decide with whom to book your Antarctic adventure. This guide answers them all:

1. What kind of ship is best?
2. What safety features are vital?
3. What is the travel operator's experience?
4. How active will your Antarctic experience be?
5. What does the travel operator offer in terms of staff and onboard experts?
6. What is their environmental record & commitment to conservation?

Antarctica is the wildest, most remote, and least predictable geography on earth. However, because many cruise lines, sensing a business opportunity, have begun to offer voyages to Antarctica, many travelers may be lulled into a false sense that Antarctica is now somehow "tame."

This guidebook was designed to give travelers information they can use to sort out the options. It will help you make the choice that will best ensure your safety and the quality of your experience.

Final Payment: For expeditions aboard National Geographic Endurance, National Geographic Explorer and National Geographic Orion, payment is due 120 days prior to departure. Travel Protection Plan: We strongly recommend that you take advantage of our Travel Protection Plan. This plan offers comprehensive coverage to protect you from cancellation fees, costs incurred due to trip delays/interruption, medical assistance, and damaged or lost baggage, and provides medical assistance and evacuation during your travels. By registering for a trip, the guest agrees to all such terms and conditions.

Note: Itineraries and prices listed in this brochure are valid as of publication date, and are subject to change. Under normal conditions, the total expedition cost is guaranteed at the time of booking. However, the published price is determined far in advance of initial departure on the basis of then-existing projections of fuel and other costs. In the event we determine that current costs create an unsustainable financial model, including but not limited to increases in the price of fuel, currency fluctuations, increases in government taxes or levies, or increased security costs, we reserve the right to pass on these costs to you, to cover such unexpected increases. We will always provide a transparent accounting of the reason for such an increase in costs.

Cancellation Policy: Cancellation penalties may apply after payment is received. Please visit www.expeditions.com/terms for complete cancellation policies.
