An encounter with the gray whales of Baja California is one of nature's most moving experiences, where the resident creatures are just as curious about travelers as we are about them.

Discover the Wild Beauty of Baja California

In the Gulf of California massive pods of leaping dolphins roil the sea's surface in a spectacle of biomass. Mobula rays swirl just beneath our Zodiacs, launching themselves into the air in a dazzling display. As we don snorkeling gear and climb into the water, sea lions leap off rocks to perform undersea acrobatics around us. Making landfall on desert isles, we hike through forests of giant cacti on sun-drenched hillsides and venture into desert arroyos that hold water long after storms, giving way to rivers of desert blossoms.

Visit island sanctuaries for breeding seabirds covered with nests, filled with a symphony of bird calls so loud your naturalist needs to shout to be heard. On the Pacific side of the peninsula hike, leap, and slide down wind- and wave-sculpted dunes that stretch along the coast. And, be among the privileged few to enter the birthing lagoons of the California gray whales for life-affirming close encounters with gentle mothers and curious calves.

Our Ships: Equipped for Genuine Exploration

The small, nimble ships in the Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic fleet are designed to provide up-close experiences in the planet's wildest and most remote places. In Baja California, that might mean going ashore on deserted islands to stroll atop sculpted sand dunes, anchoring in secluded coves backed by towering sea cliffs, or slipping past shifting sandbars to explore serene lagoons rich with marine life.

Each vessel is stocked with a fleet of Zodiacs that allow us to sail without being dependent on ports or piers, while our kayaks and paddleboards let you glide into inlets for a closer look at leaping dolphins or nesting seabirds. When we're not out exploring, open decks and large windows offer front row seats to Baja California's sapphire seas and their remarkable spectacle of marine life.

National Geographic Sea Bird

National Geographic Sea Lion

The 31-cabin National Geographic Sea Bird and her sister ship National Geographic Sea Lion are the only expedition ships operating in Baja California small enough to anchor in Magdalena Bay, a nursery for gray whale mothers and calves.

Nurture Their Passion for Exploration With Our Exclusive National Geographic Global Explorers Program

Whether it's getting within arm's reach of wild gray whales or exploring secluded coves and inlets by kayak, shared activities in Baja California's wild and exciting environment can bring a family together. With our National Geographic Global Explorers program in Baja California, there's no better way for families to explore the region. Our program for kids and teens is the only program of its kind in Baja California, giving families a unique way to explore and connect with each other and the natural world.

Developed in conjunction with National Geographic Education, the Global Explorers Program was designed to help kids and teens under 18 develop the attitudes, skills, and knowledge of an explorer. They're invited to engage in a variety of engaging activities, guided by a National Geographic certified field educator, and can collect 'points' on their way to become a National Geographic Global Explorer—with the certification to prove it! Guests under 18 (and their families) will:

- Develop their observation skills by watching out for specific wildlife, and recording observations in their Field Notebook
- Have fun with activities like earning their Zodiac driving 'license'
- Connect with nature through direct contact with wildlife above and below the sea
- Learn the art of storytelling—with photos, videos, music, writing, drawing, and more—to communicate all they'll see and do

Our exclusive program for families is the only one of its kind in Baja California travel. Scan QR code below or visit expeditions.com/family for program details.

EXPEDITION HIGHLIGHTS

- Explore the sculpted desert shoreline by kayak, hike uninhabited beaches, and snorkel among fish and acrobatic sea lions.

DAY 1: LORETO, MEXICO/EMBARK
Arrive in Loreto and embark our ship. (D)

DAYS 2–7: EXPLORING THE GULF OF CALIFORNIA

Our routing is designed with flexibility in mind, to maximize opportunities for wildlife sightings. It will most likely include the islands and activities listed below, although the order may vary. (B,L,D)

Cardon cactus flowers.

ISLAS SAN ESTEBAN AND SAN PEDRO MÁRTIR:

Walk up a desert wash, to search for desert songbirds or the endemic pinto chuckwalla—a plump, harmless desert lizard. Later visit Isla San Pedro Mártir, a 1,000-foot-high guano-covered island that is home to thousands of seabirds: brown pelicans, magnificent frigatebirds, Brandt’s cormorants; and California sea lions.

ISLA SAN MARCOS:

At Isla San Marcos, there is a beautiful shoreline for swimming, snorkeling, and kayaking. In the afternoon, we are on the lookout for pods of common and bottlenose dolphins. With luck they will join us as we go, riding the bow wave and leaping from the water.

ISLA SAN JOSÉ:

One of the larger islands in the Gulf of California, San José, offers several landings for exploration. Photograph the ochre cliffs of the island’s eastern shore, hike an “enchanted,” cactus-laden arroyo, or visit the abandoned salt works to the west.

BAHÍA LORETO MARINE PARK:

Search the waters south of Isla Carmen for fin whales, dolphins, and more. Later we visit an island of Bahía Loreto Marine Park, with ample time for kayaking, snorkeling, stand-up paddleboarding, and possibly hiking. After a sunset beach barbecue, venture into the night with a naturalist to find scorpions fluorescing under ultraviolet light.

ISLAS LOS ISLOTES AND SAN FRANCISCO:

At Los Islotes, don flippers, a mask and snorkel and swim with curious sea lions (conditions

DAYS 3 & 4: LAGUNA SAN IGNACIO

The ship will anchor at the mouth of this remote and favored haunt of Baja California's gray whales, while we observe mother and calf pairs in local pangas. Whales here seem to be friendlier than in other lagoons, and it's not unusual for mothers and calves to approach our boats, sometimes even welcoming a touch or friendly chin scratch. (B,L,D)

Jacques Cousteau called "The Aquarium of the World." The Gulf of California contains almost a third of the world's marine mammal species, and it's dotted with 244 islands islets with a surprising array of flora and fauna.
