2022-2024 VOYAGES EXPEDITIONS.COM

Dear Friends of Lindblad Expeditions,

As I write this letter our Antarctic season is in full swing. It has been thrilling to see our new ships, National Geographic Endurance and National Geographic Resolution, performing beautifully in their inaugural season. In January, National Geographic Endurance spent several days as the southernmost vessel on the planet. Even more exciting, she made a visit to one of the world's most remote islands, Peter I Island. Fewer than 1,000 people in history have ever visited this island, but our Chief Captain Leif Skog — widely heralded as the most venerable ice navigation captain on Earth — was one of those people. He had been there only one other time back in 1984. As a further bonus, just days after the Peter I landing, our guests on the ship found themselves in the midst of several hundred fin whales. This is a phenomenon rarely experienced. Sven Lindblad himself last had that experience in 1977.

Voyaging farther is a fundamental part of the Lindblad DNA. As this year gets underway, we are deeply excited about the myriad ways we can create and facilitate unique experiences for you that take you farther than ever before. The breadth of our capabilities continues to grow as we expand our fleet and our team researches and explores the most remote places. How far we have come since Lindblad Expeditions was the first company to take guests to Antarctica in 1966!

We have so many guests who have been clamoring to explore after our pandemic-induced downtime. The expeditions in this brochure, which span all seven continents, have been carefully crafted by a team that possesses an unparalleled four decades of expedition experience. Some of these voyages will immerse you in the natural wonders of the South Pacific Islands. Others transport you into the enthralling history and culture of the Iberian Peninsula or the East Coast of the United States. Each expedition has been designed to ensure that you experience the very best of these remote, wild, and fascinating places with our world-class team of naturalists, captains, hospitality professionals, and chefs. Moreover, these expeditions were created with your valuable insights and feedback in mind, to take you farther not only physically but to also joyfully expand your mind and your heart.

Thank you for being a friend of our company. We look forward to welcoming you aboard and being part of your journey to go farther, perhaps farther than you have ever gone before.

With enthusiasm and gratitude,

Dolf Berle
CEO, Lindblad Expeditions

GO FARTHER

By Tom Ritchie

TOM RITCHIE is a professional naturalist and expedition leader who has worked in the field of expedition cruising almost since its inception by Lars-Eric Lindblad. Growing up near the Everglades allowed him to spend his youth exploring the swamps, marshes, forests, and reef systems of South Florida, a perfect training ground for his life with Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic. Since 1977, Tom has led Lindblad-National Geographic voyages to the far reaches of the globe.

As a child, I loved reading my father's National Geographic magazines. I dreamed of visiting the exotic places described in the articles. I treasured my world globe. I would spin it, moving my finger up and down until it eventually stopped on some random land position (although I often forced it to stop on Africa) telling myself, "I will go there someday." I have made it to many of those places.

In 1988, while sailing off the coast of Western Australia near Shark Bay, I found myself at 28.5 degrees South latitude. "That's interesting," I thought, "because my home in Florida is located at 28.5 degrees North latitude." I then remembered we were exactly 12 hours ahead of Florida time and I realized that this was the absolute opposite position on Earth from where I live. If I were to leave my house and travel in any direction on a straight course, I would eventually end up right on this spot. I had reached my own antipodal opposition. One can't go farther from home than that!

Papuan fisherman Raja Ampat, Indonesia.

But ‘Go Farther’ does not refer only to reaching a long distance from home. It also includes seeing and experiencing places and cultures that are very different from one’s own. I have been to many remote regions in Oceania where the inhabitants still live by traditional ways that cannot be too different from how our remote ancestors survived in preindustrial times and these experiences are fascinating, thought provoking and, in certain ways, quite moving.

I learned through first-hand experience that traveling to far-flung places is one of the greatest educational experiences possible. During my long association with the Lindblad family, I have seen many of our guests ‘go farther’ through unexpected encounters with exotic wildlife or during joyful interactions with people whose lives and cultures are entirely different from their own. How much more understanding and tolerance would be garnered throughout the world if everyone had the opportunity to do this.

Expanding one’s horizons and experiencing the world’s wonders away from familiar home territory recalls the inspiring words of Henry David Thoreau, “We need the tonic of wildness...” For those of us who are inveterate travelers, the past two years have been frustrating but the wild and remote places — when we have been able to reach them — have offered solace and provided joy. As Thoreau wrote, “We can never have enough of nature.”

NORTH AMERICA

From sea to shining sea, North America showcases its wildness—from Newfoundland's striking fjords and Alaska's calving glaciers to flocks of pink flamingos in the Bahamas and Baja's mother and calf gray whales. Breathe the sweet, sultry perfume of the Barrier Islands' Spanish moss-draped oaks and the bracing fresh air of a British Columbia old growth rainforest. In remote, roadless places, jet boat through sinuous Hells Canyon or kayak in the still mangroves of uninhabited Conception Island where sea turtles forage and boobies nest. Follow the trails of Vikings, Christopher Columbus, and Lewis and Clark and learn about cultures like the Gullah-Geechee people of the coastal South and the Haida whose ancestors settled in Haida Gwaii nearly 13,000 years ago. North America's natural wonders are incredibly diverse, offering unmatched, mystical wild encounters with brown bears and manta rays, crashing hidden waterfalls and deep blue holes swirling with marine life.

A penguin with a black head and back and a white belly is standing on a large, white ice floe. The background is a vast, icy landscape with more ice floes and a pale, overcast sky. The overall scene is cold and desolate.

ANTARCTICA & PATAGONIA

Navigating around the colossal, incandescent ice forms that dwarf our Zodiacs and kayaks, the sheer scope of the White Continent and its sheets of pristine white ice stretching as far as the eye can see will humble even the most intrepid of explorers. To the vast colonies of penguins—numbering in the tens of thousands on South Georgia Island alone—add majestic whales, leopard and elephant seals, and the Falklands’ remarkable gathering of 70 percent of the world’s albatrosses. Patagonia is also an enchantress, beckoning with its snowcapped saw-toothed peaks and the tumbling glaciers and gleaming icefalls of Glacier Alley. Dramatic landscapes—fjords, steppes, forests, and lakes—are stunning habitats for marine wildlife like humpback whales, dolphins, and penguins and avian species from massive condors and rheas to tiny parakeets and flamingos. Exclusive access to the remote Staten Island off the tip of Tierra del Fuego and a private nature reserve add to these expeditions’ wow factors.

LINDBLAD EXPEDITIONS' COM

In January 2019 Lindblad Expeditions took a stand, becoming a 100 percent carbon neutral company, offsetting the carbon emissions of our fleet, employee travel worldwide, offices in New York and Seattle, all land-based operations, and beyond. We eliminated guest-facing single-use plastic fleet- and offices-wide, too. And we've embarked on several new initiatives. Here's what we're up to.

Glide, an eco-friendly company located in Salt Lake City, manufactures our fleet of stand-up paddleboards. Glide sources foam for their boards from across town and picks up the scraps to reuse and recycle. In addition, Glide created custom non-toxic pads for our boards. So, guests exploring via SUP can paddle secure in the knowledge they're on the most environmentally responsible SUP afloat.

Glide SUPs are made with plant-based Entropy Bio resins, sourced from the waste stream of the biodiesel fuel and paper production industries. Using no toxic, lead-containing automotive coatings, Glide's finish has the lowest negative environmental impact in SUP manufacturing.

Introducing the world's first self-disinfecting ships! Fleetwide we have deployed a revolutionary disinfection technology: Premium Purity™, a combination of two synergetic products, ACT CleanCoat™ and ACT ECA System™. Using sunlight and a proprietary catalyzing mechanism for disinfection, and water and salt for cleaning, Premium Purity™ achieved stats impressive enough to warrant a fleet-wide roll-out:

- Reduces guest-reported illness by 50 percent
- Eliminates exposure to toxins for our cleaning staff, and potential allergens for our guests
- Reduces water usage by approximately 1.1 million gallons per year (fleet-wide)
- Removes 1,000 single-use plastic bottles from the cleaning process annually (fleet-wide)

After testing by and feedback from our onboard staff, Stream2Sea is now our preferred partner for reef-safe sunscreen. Stream2Sea is the only mineral based sunscreen on the planet that has proven safe for freshwater fish, saltwater fish, and coral larvae, and has passed the stringent HEL Labs Protect Land + Sea certification.

MITMENT TO SUSTAINABILITY

Lindblad Expeditions is committed to buying locally wherever possible. This is good for local farmers and fishermen, and for the environment when there's less to ship by air. In 2018, 15.9 percent of our ships' provisions were purchased locally in Galápagos. In 2019, nearly 27 percent of provisions were sourced locally. And, as we are in the process of starting a new relationship with a local fish co-op, our locally purchased stats will grow. This not only supports the local economy; it helps to preserve the Galápagos eco-system by reducing the threat of invasive species entering through imported food and goods.

In conjunction with South Pole, the world's leading developer of international emission reduction projects, we developed an online  carbon calculator for guests to use if they wish to carbon offset their flights to and from our ships. Simply enter flight details, and it tallies the carbon emissions, the offset cost (often surprisingly low), and provides a choice of projects—renewable energy (solar/wind), reforestation, or community projects—to invest in to mitigate the footprint. Find it at expeditions.com/carbon-calculator.

Our Antarctic and Arctic parkas once shipped in plastic. Now each parka arrives in a reusable bag that can be re-used as a laundry bag, for beach cleanups, storage, and other practical uses, thanks to the forward and responsible thinking of our partners at Ship to Shore. Now guests can feel doubly good about their Lindblad Expeditions polar parkas!

We go to the planet's premier places to see wildlife, and often enjoy thrilling up-close encounters. However, we always maintain an appropriate distance from all animals, whether we're in the field or observing from the ship. And we withdraw at the least sign of animal discomfort. The photos shown in our brochures are taken by Lindblad Expeditions, and other photographers, including our guests, using high-end lenses that can create the illusion they are 'too near' the animal. Enjoy these stunning, up-close images, secure in the knowledge that skill and technology, not invasive closeness, produced them.

ARCTIC & THE RUSSIAN FAR EAST

In the northern reaches of the Earth, deep fjords carve into massive ice sheets, resilient wildlife roam unfettered, and native peoples live off the land and sea, following ancestral traditions. Sail into Greenland's stunning UNESCO Ilulissat Icefjord, where colossal icebergs soar upwards of 300 feet. Explore Iceland's otherworldly terrain of steaming volcanoes, geothermal springs, and crashing waterfalls. See the dramatic sea cliffs of the Faroe Islands alive with thousands of nesting puffins and be on the lookout for whales, walruses, and polar bears along the rugged coastlines of Nunavut, Wrangel Island, Franz Josef Land, and Svalbard. To explore the Bering Sea and North Pacific is to encounter fascinating little-known cultures, volcanic landscapes, and wild places barely on human radars. We will meet the peoples of the distant coastlines we explore—Chukchi, Yupik, Koryak, Ainu, and Inuit—learning about their histories, cultures, and languages that are not widely known in the world.

VIETNAM & CAMBODIA

The ancient ways of life in Vietnam and Cambodia are alive today in floating markets, traditional rice harvesting and fish farming, and skilled artisanal creations like hand-woven silk. As we float down the mighty Mekong, the heart and soul of these countries, we discover its pulsating rhythms in traditional villages and bustling cities and thoughtfully explore sublime jungle-shrouded temples highlighted by Angkor. A visit to Angkor reaches far beyond a single temple. It is a deep and expansive exploration of the intriguing Khmer civilization through its architecturally magnificent 12th-century city of temples. Fully explore the complex beginning with sunrise at Angkor Wat followed by a discovery of Angkor Thom's castle-like fortifications, Ta Prohm's fascinating ruins, still largely encircled by jungle vines, and the temple of Banteay Srei, a favorite of photographers for its elaborate carvings. A private dinner at a temple will be an evening to remember. There are opportunities throughout the expedition to engage with locals at schools and crafts workshops and to understand the complicated history of these two culturally rich countries.

A monk stands by the entrance of Banteay Srei temple; Angkor Wat; tuk-tuk, Phnom Penh; life along the Tonle Sap River.

Volcanic peaks rise dramatically from turquoise lagoons and steep cliffs drop straight to deserted beaches. An astonishing array of marine life inhabits clear, warm water: 20 species of whales and dolphins, 16-foot manta rays, green sea turtles, and vast schools of tropical fish dart around multicolored galaxies of healthy corals. Dine on a private motu; float in a hidden cave; spot an ultramarine lorikeet on a rainforest hike or a fairy tern while kayaking in a secluded cove. Find your perfect paradise in the iconic landscapes of jagged green peaks, pristine beaches, and the bluest of blue waters, continuing the legacy of explorers, writers, and artists like James Cook, Robert Louis Stevenson, and Paul Gauguin. Idyllic surroundings are a given, but what many find surprising is how much these islands are steeped in history and culture. Through meeting welcoming locals and seeing dance performances, thousand-year-old petroglyphs, an eight-foot moss-covered tiki, sacred sites called marae, and Easter Island's iconic moai, we learn about this region's proud history and cultures.

From the North Sea to the Bay of Biscay and from the dazzling treasures of St. Petersburg to the charming cobblestone streets of Dinan, Brittany, our expeditions deliver special experiences in iconic destinations. Walk with a historian in the footsteps of Allied troops on Omaha Beach, cruise the storybook canals of Bruges on a private excursion, and collect mussels with a Galician fisherman. Architectural wonders include the legendary Santiago de Compostela Cathedral, glorious Mont-Saint-Michel, and the billowing metal façade of the Guggenheim Bilbao. Sail through Norway's dramatic fjords, stroll along Amsterdam's canals, taste whisky on Skye and port in Porto. In the paths of early traders and nobles, travel the routes of the Hanseatic League to nine countries united by the Baltic Sea: Explore Sweden's tranquil archipelago, the walled Old Towns of Tallinn and Riga, and the picturesque gables and spires of Lübeck, the league's medieval capital. Diminutive Shetland ponies can be seen in their natural habitat, marine animals like whales and porpoises often show themselves at sea, and pelagic birds can be seen in enormous numbers as in the tens of thousands that nest on Noss Island's seabird skyscraper.

OUR SHIPS

Our expedition ships are framing devices through which you look at the world. Our ships galvanize your gaze, directing it outward, enabling you to pay the same rapt and informed attention to wildlife and wild places that our species gives to the culture we value—art, music, and performance. As a result, after an expedition your senses are heightened. You see your surroundings in keener detail, and benefit from dopamine and other rich brain rewards that come from sustained attention, not just ‘clicks’ or ‘likes.’

It’s what makes ship-based travel so vital to the Lindblad-National Geographic mission to explore and understand the world. And now that our fleet has grown—with more blue-water ships, come more blue-sky possibilities.

And life onboard is remarkable. Being in the wild doesn’t mean renouncing comfort, cossetting amenities, or superb food. Our hotel team will know what you like and how you like it from Day One. Regardless of how often you’re in your cabin, it will be immaculate when you return. And, understanding the age-old adage that “an expedition travels on its stomach,” our chefs and their galley teams make dining daily full of interest, discovery and in many cases, the rich flavors of the region you’re exploring.

Wherever possible, and our team has expanded the notion of possible, it will be local and/or sustainably produced or caught.

We invite you to dream big.

Self-Disinfecting Ships

Lindblad Expeditions-National Geographic became the first self-disinfecting fleet with the rollout of the ACT CleanCoat™ system in 2019. This photocatalytic cleaning process activates when illuminated, continuously breaking down unwanted microbes such as bacteria, viruses, mold, and airborne allergens. The positive environmental impacts of this non-toxic, chemical-free system are many: less plastic in the supply chain and waste stream, and more than one million gallons of water saved annually. The system lowers our carbon footprint and creates a cleaner, healthier shipboard environment for guests and crew alike.

We reserve the right to cancel your reservation if payment has not been received by final payment due date.

Travel Protection Plan: We strongly recommend that you take advantage of our Travel Protection Plan. This plan offers comprehensive coverage to protect you from cancellation fees, costs incurred due to trip delays/interruption, medical assistance, and damaged or lost baggage, and provides medical assistance and evacuation during your travels. Our Travel Protection Plan is available for U.S. residents only and may be purchased any time prior to final payment due date. If you are not satisfied for any reason, you may return your plan within 10 days after purchase. Your premium will be refunded if canceled within 10 days, provided you have not already departed on the trip or filed a claim. When so returned, the coverage under the plan is void from the original date of purchase.

Responsibility and Other Terms & Conditions: Certain provisions concerning, among other things, limitations of Lindblad Expeditions' and National Geographic Expeditions' (a division of National Geographic Partners, LLC) liability for loss of property, injury, illness, or death during the voyage will be provided to all guests on the ship's ticket sent prior to departure, and are also available on our website at expeditions.com/terms, or upon request. By registering for a trip, the guest agrees to all such terms and conditions.
