LINDBLAD EXPEDITIONS: A PARTNER IN GALÁPAGOS CONSERVATION | 1967-2017

FOR A COMPLETE CHRONOLOGY VISIT EXPEDITIONS.COM/GALA50

DEAR TRAVELER,

Many people who choose to visit Galápagos plan their voyage, from several months to a year in advance. Nice way to build anticipation, but not necessary. Because Galápagos really lends itself to spontaneity; on any day you could wake up at home, decide to go, and hop on a Friday or Saturday flight to Ecuador—on your way to a exhilarating week in the Galápagos on one of our two ships, the National Geographic Endeavour II or the National Geographic Islander.

Ecuador is surprisingly close—just 4 hours from Miami, and yet Galápagos is very far from any experience most people can imagine.

It's a wild and spectacular place, and we are most excited to share it with you during our 50th anniversary, a particularly celebratory year to join us. But I warn you to “Eat your Wheaties,” if you want to take advantage of the myriad daily possibilities. From hiking to snorkeling, kayaking or even paddleboarding, this is an action-packed expedition, with down time only if you want it. (And hammocks and a wellness spa for treatments, if that's your choice).

We genuinely believe that everyone with even an ounce of interest in wildlife or natural history should make their pilgrimage here at some point.

And if you choose to go with us, I wholeheartedly believe you have made the right choice. While geography belongs to everyone, the perspective that will enrich your experience, well that's another matter entirely.

Please look through these pages, and hopefully you will agree that Galápagos, with us, is a good idea—whether you plan it or simply get up and go.

All the best,

Sven-Olof Lindblad

ALWAYS SOMETHING INTERESTING GOING ON

There's never a dull moment in Galápagos. None of the endemic species migrate, so you're assured of seeing life in full swing whenever you choose to travel. There's always fascinating behavior to observe and learn about—courtship, nesting, raising young, feeding, defending territory and more. And because Galápagos' creatures don't fear humans, you'll have a rare experience of closeness with the animals—literally and figuratively. You could visit Galápagos 50 times, as Sven Lindblad has, and see something new each time. Travel with us, and our 50 years of experience guarantees you exciting opportunities every day.

EVERY EXPEDITION IS AN OCCASION

OUR RELATIONSHIP WITH GALÁPAGOS DATES BACK 50 YEARS. WE'VE BEEN involved with the people who work tirelessly to protect this place since Lars-Eric Lindblad brought the first citizen explorers on his pioneering 1967 expedition. When you travel with us you're a part of something larger, and you're connected to interesting people doing interesting things. And, there's always something special going on. Here are some specific examples and dates:

ARTIST IN RESIDENCE

Amy Wright, an accomplished scientific illustrator and public arts muralist, will be aboard National Geographic Islander to teach drawing. Do field studies of Galápagos animals, and learn the fine points from a master. All levels welcome. Sep. 16 & 23, 2017

SPECIAL GUEST: MICHAEL JACKSON

Michael Jackson is the author of the popular Galápagos: A Natural History, and a leader representing the AAAS and Sigma Xi, The Scientific Research Honor Society groups aboard National Geographic Endeavour II. Originally from Kent, England, Jackson first came to the islands almost 40 years ago as a naturalist guide, and returned soon after as a zoologist with the 1982 Cambridge Darwin Centenary Galápagos Expedition. Dec. 8, 2017

JEOPARDY! ABOARD

Join Jeopardy! host Alex Trebek and the Clue Crew when they return to Galápagos with us aboard National Geographic Endeavour II. Oct. 6, 2017

GROSVENOR TEACHER FELLOWS ABOARD

The LEX-NG Fund supports the Grosvenor Teacher Fellow program, which brings 35 exemplary K-12 teachers into the field every year. In 2017, five National Geographic Endeavour II departures will host these educators. Choose to travel on the dates below, and you'll share the adventure with a Fellow, and learn about the importance of geographic literacy and how each will bring back—to their home classrooms, colleagues, and communities—what they learn during this professional development experience. A Grosvenor Teacher Fellow is aboard these departures: Jun. 2, 9; Aug. 25; Sep. 15, 22, 2017

A+ NATURALISTS, SMART COMPANIONS & MORE

Our Galápagos expedition team, hand-picked and Lindblad Expeditions-trained, is made up of engaging naturalists born and bred in the Galápagos Islands, and others who moved to the islands from the mainland or other countries decades ago. They each have a deep understanding of all aspects of Galápagos' natural and human history, and are experts in relevant areas: ornithology, geology, zoology, and the undersea. They are also passionate and knowledgeable about Galápagos conservation. Many have traveled and worked with Lindblad in other parts of the world's great natural history destinations, bringing a global perspective. Your time with them will greatly enhance your experience and your understanding of this remote archipelago.

EXPERIENCE GALÁPAGOS WITH ALL YOUR SENSES

Count on starting each day with savory and nutritious breakfast buffets featuring 100% Galápagos coffee (grown and roasted), fresh local juices, smoothies, Andean grains, plus every other classic breakfast staple, including bespoke omelets. Lunch buffets feature mainland- and Galápagos-sourced ingredients—meats, sustainable seafood, vegetables, even jams and fruit. Daily dinner choices include fresh produce, sustainably sourced lobster in season, chicken, beef, and wines from the top Chilean and Argentinean providers. All the food served aboard, plus barbecues on deck and our traditional Ecuadorian feast is locally inflected—giving you another window on the nature and culture of the region. Equally important, our approach to food is focused on supporting and protecting the islands.

We are proud to be the first travel company in Galápagos serving Endemica, the only artisanal beer produced on San Cristobal. Also, we offer a wide selection of Ecuadorian craft beers with 100% local micro lot production.

“We are working with Lava Java, a local farm in the highlands of Santa Cruz Island, with an incredibly resilient vertical organic agriculture that uses less water, and has a self-composting system. They grow some of the lettuce we serve aboard our ships, and the chilies, cacao, flat leaf kale, heirloom cherry tomatoes, cilantro, basil and other herbs, as well. In the very near future, we will be able to offer the first-ever farm-to-table dining in Galápagos. Eliminating the importing of produce helps protect the islands against invasive species. In addition, it contributes to creating local jobs, and to the economic growth of the local farmers.”

—Ana Esteves, Manager Hotel Operations, Lindblad Expeditions
