NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC™

Lindblad Expeditions and National Geographic have joined forces to further inspire the world through expedition travel. Our collaboration in exploration, research, technology and conservation will provide extraordinary travel experiences and disseminate geographic knowledge around the globe.

DEAR TRAVELER,

In 1966 when my father, Lars-Eric Lindblad, conceived of taking travelers on expedition to the Galápagos Islands, he had no way to gauge the possible success of his offering. He guessed that certain people would be eager, as he was, to visit these legendary islands and experience them as Darwin, and many scientists had done.

Apparently, he guessed correctly—many people signed on for his pioneering first, and his many subsequent expeditions, individuals from all walks of life, each with his or her own motives.

And in the fifty years since my father's first expedition, we have shared these islands we know so well with countless other individuals with diverse motives and interests. Most come for the wildlife, for Nature, for the example of enlightened conservation Galápagos offers. Some are inveterate island lovers, and aim to visit all the cool islands of the world. Many of our guests share their memories of life sciences as a kid, or biology or zoology courses in college, and tell us they like to continue learning on vacation. They might mention having read Jonathan Weiner's best-selling The Beak of the Finch or any of a dozen articles in National Geographic over the years, or having seen a documentary on Animal Planet, or happening upon Tui de Roy's superb photography books at a bookstore.

You may share any of these motivations, or have your own. Perhaps you feel your kids or grandkids need to know about Galápagos. Maybe your friends went, loved it, and so, you decided to go too. Or perhaps you simply like the idea that it's on the equator, and a warm refuge from winter—with more 'content' than the usual beach vacation.

Whatever your reasons for choosing to go to Galápagos—you're right. It's one of the most rewarding, and transformative, travel experiences a person can have. And it will exceed every expectation you bring to it.

We have learned that the people who choose Galápagos have thoughtful reasons for doing so. So, we've developed our style of expedition travel to provide the most thoughtful, in-depth experience of Galápagos possible for them.

We hope you will choose to bring your motivations and interests, and explore Galápagos with us, too.

All the best,

LIKE LIVING AN ISSUE OF NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC

Fifty years ago, Lars-Eric Lindblad, father of CEO Sven Lindblad, led the first non-scientific international expedition to the Galápagos Islands, once the sole province of early whalers, explorers and scientists. We've been committed to Galápagos ever since. The expertise we've gained over fifty years—and our unprecedented alliance with National Geographic—is why we provide such a superb Galápagos experience.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC ON BOARD

The Galápagos Islands have appeared in National Geographic magazine, as cover or inside story, over 200 times since its founding in 1888. When Sven Lindblad entered into a singular and historic alliance with National Geographic in 2004, more than a century of National Geographic global knowledge boarded our ships. Through our joint mission to “further inspire the world through expedition travel,” we enable guests to share the adventure with modern heroes of exploration, from National Geographic photographers, explorers, and scientists, to field educators. And through the LEX-NG Fund, our guests can contribute to diverse conservation initiatives worldwide and make a positive impact on the places they explore.

OUR NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC GALÁPAGOS SHIPS

The connection to National Geographic goes well beyond our ship names National Geographic Islander and National Geographic Endeavour II. Both ships carry a full roster of tools to enhance your experience—a fleet of Zodiacs, kayaks, and stand-up paddleboards; complete snorkeling gear, including shorty wetsuits, for all; plus, undersea video technology, a video microscope, underwater cameras, and more. We have enough equipment to get the entire guest community out on active daily adventures—without waiting around for your turn, or moving as a herd. Our generous staff-to-guest ratio enables us to offer choice—each and every day you can decide what activities you want to engage in; the activity level that suits you; and, you’re free to join the naturalists whose personalities and interests most appeal to you.

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC PHOTOGRAPHY

National Geographic magazine invented visual storytelling, and National Geographic photographers have long reigned as the most esteemed visual storytellers in the world. Galápagos is one of the most visually inspiring places on the planet, and for many, it's a once-in-a-lifetime travel experience—knowing that you'll be able to capture the experience and tell your story in great images is an important consideration.

Because we have Lindblad-National Geographic certified photo instructors on every Galápagos departure all year-long, you can rely on assistance with your camera settings, composition basics and useful tips—to give you a deeper, richer 'lens' on the wildlife. Travelers at every level find themselves honing their observation skills, and taking home their best photos ever.

Those who want an even deeper immersion in image-making can choose to travel with a featured National Geographic photographer, or join an exclusive Photo Expedition and be surrounded, and inspired by, an elite cadre of National Geographic photographers. (See page 11 for opportunities).

FEATURING NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC GLOBAL EXPLORERS

Our unique exploration-based program for kids and teens is the only such program in Galápagos travel. Developed in conjunction with National Geographic Education, our program is designed to help travelers under 18 develop the attitudes, skills, and knowledge of an explorer. Kids and teens are invited to engage in a variety of cool activities, some at their own pace and others guided by a National Geographic certified field educator. From recording wildlife sightings in their Field Notebook and collecting and observing plankton, to getting their Zodiac driving “license” or using video to tell their travel stories, participants can join in as much or as little as they like. Along the way, they’ll have opportunities to collect ‘points’ to become a National Geographic Global Explorer—with the certification to prove it! This program gives families a unique way to explore and connect, with each other and with the natural world.

EVERY DAY IS FILLED WITH ADVENTURE

Our expeditions are designed to optimize your individual experience of Galápagos. What would you like to do today? Which of the many activities on offer—from walks to more energetic hikes, to Zodiac shore cruises, to paddling adventures—suits your interests today? Our operation is geared to get you off the ship, out exploring and actively experiencing all the kaleidoscopic wonders Galápagos offers, from swimming with sea lions off a pristine arc of beach, to snorkeling with a passing flotilla of Pacific green sea turtles. Make it yours.

THE HEART OF THE EXPERIENCE

The warmth, humanity and dedication of our expedition team, officers, and crew is unequalled. Plus, our connection to the larger Galápagos community through our 50-year commitment to conservation connects you, too. Be a part of it all as you explore and experience.

Full-time Lindblad-National Geographic naturalist guides and Expedition Leaders include Paula Tagle, Carlos Romero, Jonathan Aguas, Juan Carlos Avila and Jason Heilman, 65 years in Galápagos among them.

SHARING CULTURE THROUGH FOOD

Dine daily on produce sourced, in large part, from local farms in the highlands of Santa Cruz Island, with an incredibly resilient vertical organic agriculture that uses less water, and has a self-composting system. Thanks to the efforts of Ana Esteves (left) our manager of hotel services, we are working towards 100% Galápagos sourced dining, helping to protect the islands against invasive species.

Wander up and be welcomed on the bridge whenever you wish, a feature of all our expeditions.

PRICES FROM: $6,960 to $15,400 (See pages 17 & 21 for complete prices.)

In the Galápagos, no single site can be visited by the same ship more than once over a two-week period. The idea was developed in 2011, and Lindblad was the first voluntary adopter of this innovative new proposal by the Galápagos National Park, which had as its purpose to spread people out to allow for a more intimate experience. We have created an optimal balance during each week in terms of terrain and wildlife. If you wish to see all the sites, you could join for two weeks, but be assured there is no better week to experience Galápagos—just nuances from one week to the other.

EXPEDITION HIGHLIGHTS

- ▶ Snorkel amid shimmering fish, sea turtles, penguins, and playful sea lions.
- ▶ Walk among colonies of wildlife and birds unfazed by your presence.
- ▶ Explore the waters of the Galápagos by kayak, glass-bottom boat (Endeavour II), Zodiac, or paddleboard.
- ▶ Observe giant Galápagos tortoises in the wild.
