NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC™

Lindblad Expeditions and National Geographic have joined forces to further inspire the world through expedition travel. Our collaboration in exploration, research, technology and conservation will provide extraordinary travel experiences and disseminate geographic knowledge around the globe.

DEAR TRAVELER,

There is more and more theory emerging about the power and relevance of our need as humans to connect with nature. That's true for adults and, most certainly, for kids.

A good friend of mine, Richard Louv, who wrote the international best seller Last Child in the Woods, coined the phrase “nature-deficit disorder.” By that he meant that in our evolving high-tech world, children are becoming ever more disconnected and, as a scientist, he suggests that this has far-reaching consequences in their development. I highly recommend this book and his subsequent one, The Nature Principle—Human Restoration and the End of Nature-Deficit Disorder.

I write this here only to say that connection with nature in this particular place—Galápagos—is perhaps at its greatest possible level. And, if you are a family, the joy and benefits are beyond measure.

We take the responsibility of curating, if you will, our guests' time here very seriously and have been doing so for 50 years.

You deserve for us to do whatever it takes to ensure your connection with this awesomely wild place will be an experience and a memory that will stay with you forever.

All the best,

Sven-Olof Lindblad

FROM THE FIELD:

“Our itinerary called for us to leave Punta Espinoza at noon for a 1:30 arrival at Punta Vincente Roca on Isabela Island. We had a full afternoon of activities planned, so guests and the expedition team were eager to get there. But fortunately, we have permission to be flexible and spontaneous in our day-to-day explorations. One of the naturalists spotted a distinct shape in the distance, and alerted expedition leader, Paula Tagle, on the bridge. She and the Captain made the decision to detour over for a close sighting. Another naturalist on the team suited up and grabbed the video gear—and soon all guests were invited onto the bridge to spend time observing a fascinating creature seldom seen in Galápagos waters—a giant Mola—as the naturalists described what’s known about this mysterious ocean sunfish. Later that evening, guests were treated to up-close video footage. Consensus: weird, wonderful, and a thrilling discovery!”

—Peggy C., letter to Sven Lindblad, January, 2018

MAGNIFICENTLY WEIRD, TOO

EXCLUSIVELY OURS:

NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC GLOBAL EXPLORERS PROGRAM

Developed in conjunction with National Geographic Education, our unique exploration-based program is designed to develop the attitudes, skills and knowledge of an explorer. Kids and teens can engage in a variety of cool activities—guided by a National Geographic certified field educator. From recording wildlife sightings in their Field Notebook to collecting and observing plankton, each activity is adapted for their age. Along the way, they'll collect 'points' to become a National Geographic Global Explorer—with the certification to prove it! Kids can choose to participate in some or all—leaving time for families to explore together and connect. Kids under 18 can:

- ✓ Learn to drive a Zodiac and get a “license”
- ✓ Benefit from National Geographic certified field educators on every departure
- ✓ Capture a moment of wonder—in words, drawings, photos or movies—to develop story skills
- ✓ Take a Spanish lesson, or learn about culture and cuisine aboard ship
- ✓ Participate in “In the Field: Spot It!” activities to locate and observe wildlife based on cues

Charles Darwin kept fourteen field notebooks to record his shore excursions during the voyage of the HMS Beagle. Kids receive their own exclusively developed and designed Field Notebook at the beginning of their Galápagos expedition, to record like Darwin did! Illustrated with photos and facts, the Notebook encourages them to observe what's around them, jot down their stories, and stretch their minds—collecting “points” for activities on their way to becoming a certified National Geographic Global Explorer. And, it's a lasting personal keepsake of their incredible Galápagos experience.

EVERY DAY IS FILLED WITH ADVENTURE

Our expeditions are designed to optimize your individual experience of Galápagos. What would you like to do today? Which of the many activities on offer—from walks to more energetic hikes, to Zodiac shore cruises, to paddling adventures—suits your interests today? Our operation is geared to get you off the ship, out exploring and actively experiencing all the kaleidoscopic wonders Galápagos offers, from swimming with sea lions off a pristine arc of beach, to snorkeling with a passing flotilla of Pacific green sea turtles. Make it yours.

Clockwise from upper left: Paddle the new fleet of versatile kayaks; snorkel with schools of King Angelfish; paddle in historic Buccaneer's Cove, Isla Santiago; hike to the viewpoint of Tagus Cove, Isla Isabela; encounter a rare whale shark and other marine wonders in the rich waters.

THE HEART OF THE EXPERIENCE

The warmth, humanity and dedication of our expedition team, officers, and crew is unequalled. Plus, our connection to the larger Galápagos community through our 50-year commitment to conservation connects you, too. Be a part of it all as you explore and experience.

Full-time Lindblad-National Geographic naturalist guides and Expedition Leaders include Paula Tagle, Carlos Romero, Jonathan Aguas, Juan Carlos Avila and Jason Heilman, 65 years in Galápagos among them.

SHARING CULTURE THROUGH FOOD

Dine daily on produce sourced, in large part, from local farms in the highlands of Santa Cruz Island, with an incredibly resilient vertical organic agriculture that uses less water, and has a self-composting system. Thanks to the efforts of Ana Esteves (left) our director of hotel services, we are working towards 100% Galápagos sourced dining, helping to protect the islands against invasive species.

Wander up and be welcomed on the bridge whenever you wish, a feature of all our expeditions.

In the Galápagos, no single site can be visited by the same ship more than once over a two-week period. The idea was developed in 2011, and Lindblad was the first voluntary adopter of this innovative new proposal by the Galápagos National Park, which had as its purpose to spread people out to allow for a more intimate experience. We have created an optimal balance during each week in terms of terrain and wildlife. If you wish to see all the sites, you could join for two weeks, but be assured there is no better week to experience Galápagos—just nuances from one week to the other.

EXPEDITION HIGHLIGHTS

- ▶ Snorkel amid shimmering fish, sea turtles, penguins, and playful sea lions.
 - ▶ Walk among colonies of wildlife and birds unfazed by your presence.
 - ▶ Explore the waters of the Galápagos by kayak, glass-bottom boat (Endeavour II), Zodiac, or paddleboard.
 - ▶ Observe giant Galápagos tortoises in the wild.
 - ▶ Enhance your expedition with a pre-voyage extension in the Andes, or continue to iconic Machu Picchu or the Amazon for a complete adventure.
- See pages 22-23, or visit expeditions.com.
