ABOARD NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC ORION | 2020-2022

Dear Traveler,

Back in 1966 & '67 my father, Lars-Eric Lindblad, was the first to bring adventurous travelers to Antarctica and Patagonia. While we've added greatly to our knowledge of these lands and much in the world has changed, these two places remain largely unchanged. They are both isolated by geography—remote and imposing in every way. They are not easy to get or to explore, but I can assure you that if you make the commitment to explore them you will get back ten-fold what you put in.

For the first time we are combining these iconic regions into one voyage. Our 20-day Antarctica and Patagonia: Legendary Ice and Epic Fjords itinerary is a chance to explore the southernmost realms of the planet—places of unimaginable beauty, where humpback whales breach and penguins gather by the thousands, where icebergs shimmer and sapphire-hued fjords harbor snowcapped peaks and virgin forests. Follow in the wake of legendary explorers like Ernest Shackleton and Ferdinand Magellan to explore these capitals of wildness.

And, if you've recently been to Antarctica or simply want to focus on Patagonia, our 16-day Best of Chilean Patagonia itinerary offers a broad view of the region, so you'll experience the highlights as well as several out-of-the-way wonders. It is a unique land and sea journey that includes three nights at a superb lodge situated inside the famous Torres del Paine National Park. This is a perfect base camp from which to discover inland Patagonia. Plus, we'll call at Isla de los Estados, an island long off-limits to outsiders that is overrun with wild beech forests and penguins and is home to the "lighthouse at the end of the world," which inspired Jules Verne's novel of the same name.

Both expeditions are on National Geographic Orion. If you haven't had the pleasure of sailing her, she is an absolute joy to be aboard. The smallest of our ice-strengthened vessels, she is perfect for sailing deep into the extensive maze of fast-moving channels and fjords of Chile and through "Glacier Alley"—both incredible sites you'll explore on both itineraries featured here. And at just 102 guests she is yacht-scale and intimate, and our guests consistently give her chefs and amenities rave reviews in comment cards.

As always, our expedition staff will add further dimensions to your experience, and a National Geographic photographer will help you capture the abundant and incredible photo opportunities at the ends of the Earth. I hope you'll join us.

All the best,

Sven-Olof Lindblad

A photograph of two large elephant seals resting on a dark, rocky beach. The seals are dark brown with lighter patches on their heads and necks. They are facing each other, with their heads tilted upwards. In the background, there are rugged, rocky mountains with some green vegetation. The sky is a clear, pale blue. The text "EXPLORE PATAGONIA'S WILD COAST AND IMPOSING INTERIOR BY LAND AND SEA" is overlaid in white, uppercase letters across the upper portion of the image.

EXPLORE PATAGONIA'S WILD COAST AND IMPOSING INTERIOR BY LAND AND SEA

PATAGONIA HAS NO DEFINED BORDERS. ROUGHLY FRAMED BY imposing peaks and fast-moving channels, it is as much a wild idea as it is a wild place. To explore it is to enter a near-mythic land that without an expedition ship is accessible only to the hardest of backpackers. This 16-day Best of Chilean Patagonia itinerary offers you a chance to venture into the rugged interior. You'll savor the grandeur of Torres del Paine's sunrises and sunsets, its saw-toothed peaks, and its profusion of wildlife over three days at the Tierra Patagonia Hotel & Spa, a National Geographic Unique Lodge of the World, or the outstanding Explora Patagonia Hotel Salto Chico. Then sail Patagonia's maze of channels and fjords that terminate in tidewater glaciers aboard National Geographic Orion. Venturing out on Zodiac forays, or hiking virgin trails, you'll breathe the rarefied air of this pristine region. Enjoy special access to Argentina's Isla de los Estados (Staten Island)—a seldom-seen island covered in wind-sculpted flora, with abundant South American fur seals. Discover the vast parklands of Karukinka, where we have special permission from the Wildlife Conservation Society. And if the weather gods are with us, you can check viewing legendary Cape Horn off your life list. The 12-day Patagonia: Chilean Fjords & Argentina's Staten Island provides the same peak experiences, but in a more compact timeframe, and without the land stay.

Kayaking in a quiet cove, Staten Island.

“ I climbed a path and from the top looked upstream towards Chile. I could see the river, glinting and sliding through the bone-white cliffs with strips of emerald cultivation on either side. Away from the cliffs was the desert. There was no sound but the wind, whirring through thorns and whistling through dead grass, and no other sign of life but a hawk, and a black beetle easing over white stones.”

EXPLORE WHERE AND HOW WE WANT— IN STYLE & COMFORT

is a pleasure to travel aboard. She is a rarity—small and mighty—accommodating just 102 guests and yet built with a hull strengthened to cut through the ice, allowing her to sail fearlessly into places like Antarctica or Patagonia’s “Glacier Alley.” She allows us to go where we want, when we want, and to offer the kind of experience we want. In fact, over the 2018-19 season, National Geographic Orion achieved the farthest south point ever for a ship in the Lindblad-National Geographic fleet. She is equipped with a fleet of Zodiacs and kayaks for active, up-close exploration. Her expansive decks are ideal for vista-watching; her welcoming Bridge is stocked with binoculars; her library invites reference and reading while underway; her spa and fitness center are perfect for unwinding, and her observation lounge is the ideal place for steeping in spectacular views. National Geographic Orion’s amenities are also deeply rewarding: the dining aboard, from the breakfast buffet, lunch, teatime, and hors d’oeuvres at Recap, to Executive Chef Lothar Greiner’s remarkable dinner offerings, is supremely satisfying. And the ship’s 53 spacious cabins and suites, many with balconies, offer the perfect ending to active days.

“To the extent our company has a mantra, it’s the ‘tonic of wildness.’ We believe, as Henry David Thoreau did, in the healing power of wild places for the human spirit.”
